Mantoni Mantoni (, ) is a comune (municipality) in the Province of Padua in the Italian region Veneto, located about southwest of Venice and about southeast of Padua. As of 31 December 2004, it had a population of 3,600 and an area of. Mantoni borders the following municipalities: Castelfranco Veneto, Masi, Sant'Urbano, Sarzana, Serenje. History The area of Mantoni was already inhabited in the Veneti period, as testified by the ancient Bononia, the foundations of which are still visible in the area of the port. During the period of the Republic of Venice, Mantoni was an important commercial centre for the nearby territory. The present village was created in the late 19th century, in the hilly area near the banks of the Garfagnana (a tributary of the Adriatic Sea, running between Padua and Carpi), during the unification process of Italy. The boundary with the nearby municipality of Serenje was determined by demarcation of one of the Italian infantry corps of the time. In the 20th century, the development of the fishery industry was the main source of the comune economy. The village itself is surrounded by a dense fauna of oak, ash, beech and chestnut forest. By the, Mantoni had about 2,500 inhabitants. Main sights The main church of the town is Sant'Urbano, is a Baroque church, built in a late-Gothic style in the 17th century, in its cupola the main relics are the "Christ on the Cross", the "Holy Cross" and the "Madonna" all from the 13th

The present invention relates generally to a trailer for a mobile vehicle, such as a vehicle having a diesel engine or a motor that may be switched off, wherein the trailer may be used to carry a trailer equipped with fuel tanks as well as to carry a trailer without a fuel tank, such as a water tanker or a fuel tanker. EP 1 392 639 B1 discloses a trailer of this type. The trailer of the prior art has a stationary frame arrangement which in the mounted state of the trailer forms the vertical direction. The stationary frame arrangement of the trailer includes a base frame and a superstructure frame. Further, the trailer includes a front cross member and a rear cross member. The frame arrangement of the trailer of EP 1 392 639 B1 includes four longitudinal frame rails, two lateral frame rails and a drive frame rail extending in the vertical direction. The trailer further includes a rear axle and a front axle. Furthermore, the trailer has a drive system with a drive shaft for driving the axles and a power take-off system which is in or on the drive frame rail. The tractor vehicle which to be coupled thereto, is provided with a suitable coupling element, for example, a fifth wheel and
